THE EPILOGUE

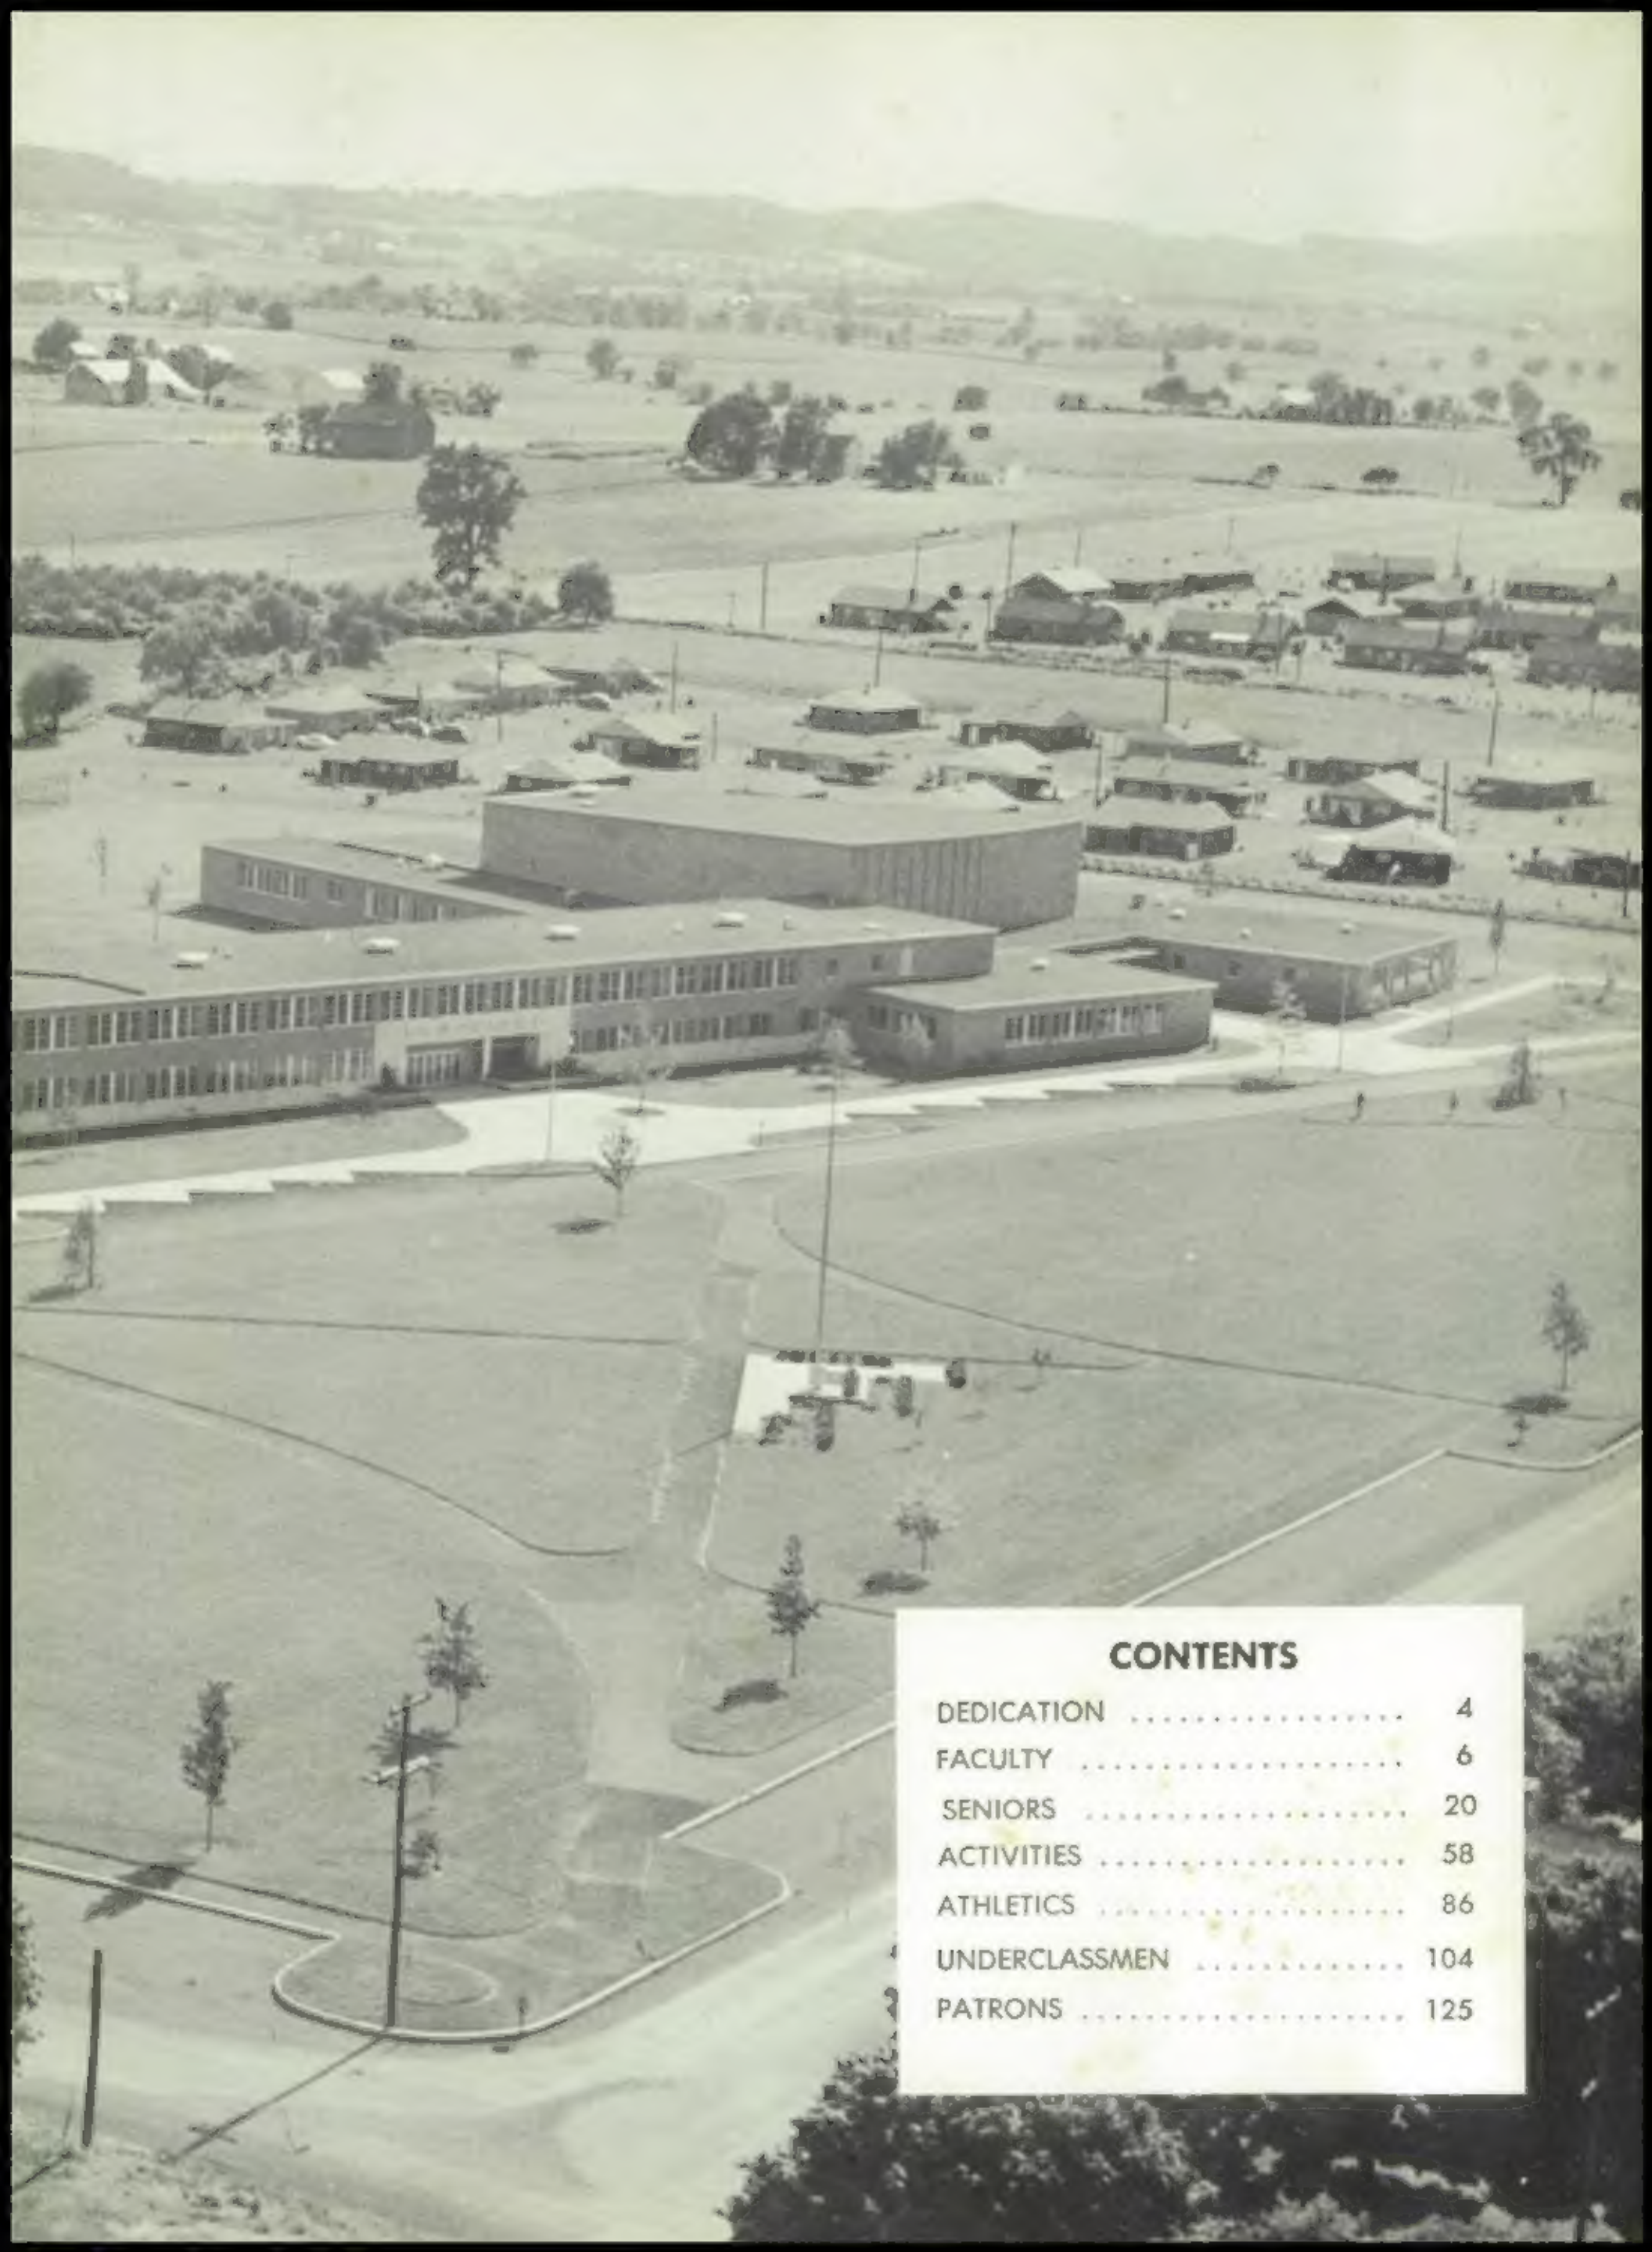

Published by
THE CLASS OF 1960
Hempfield High School
Landisville, Pennsylvania

An aerial photograph of the Hempfield High School campus. The main building is a long, low structure with a flat roof and a series of windows. To its right is a taller, more complex building with multiple wings. The campus is surrounded by large, open fields. In the background, there are rolling hills and some scattered trees. The overall scene is a wide, open landscape.

FOREWORD

Throughout our years in the Halls of Hempfield, many rich and rewarding experiences have transpired, leaving us with pleasant memories of our high school days. We, the Seniors, who are at the threshold of a new phase in our lives, have tried to capture a few of these cherished memories in this, our 1960 Epilogue. As we bid farewell to our Alma Mater, we hope that, as we have achieved advancement in learning, so also will the underclassmen, the Seniors of tomorrow.

To Mr. Edwin McGehee, we, the Class of 1960, dedicate this book. His advice and imagination have on many occasions been a deciding factor in the success of projects undertaken by the Senior Class, as well as by many organizations and clubs. His tireless efforts and unselfish support are certainly worthy of our appreciation and admiration.

JUNIOR PLAY

"A LITTLE HONEY"
By William Davidson

Diana Minton, a pretty girl of twenty, is having difficulty in landing her man Tom. Mother Minton, it seems, has had a big hand in this romance. She has taught Diana that the way to interest a man is to be able to talk fluently on subjects dear to his heart. But despite Mrs. Minton's "fool-proof" tactics, Tom goes off to Peru, leaving Diana minus a sparkle on her third finger - left hand.

As the curtain rises, Tom, having returned from Peru, is coming to see the Mintons, especially their oldest daughter, Diana, thoroughly coached by her mother, sounds like a bureau of statistics. A previous engagement provides an excuse for Tom's early departure.

Grandma, taking over at this point, shows the discouraged Diana how to prepare the room and herself for a proposal. A warm fire, dim lights, and a very feminine dress greet the bewildered Tom. As the evening progresses, a proposal seems near at hand until Diana's younger sister Jerry and her heart throb Albert barge in and upset the romantic scene. The cook, who is on the rampage. Grandma, who is mad at the nurse who has been hired to see that she watches her diet and doesn't sneak pork sandwiches from the kitchen, the youngest sister, tomboyish frog crazy Scoots, and Mr. Minton, who is trying to get out of the clutches of a Southern widow who has thrown her income tax problems and also herself into his lap — all these add to the uproar. Finally the arrival of an exterminator man completes the tumult that has so rudely broken the romantic spell surrounding Diana and Tom.

Feeling that the time is now or never, Diana resorts to homemade tactics and draws out the proposal she has wanted for years. Diana's problem has been solved, and the curtain falls on the happy scene.

The Junior class presented this three-act comedy under the direction of Miss Nolt.

SENIOR PLAY

"TIGER HOUSE"

By Robert St. Clair

Erma Lowrie, a young sales clerk, has inherited an estate from her eccentric Aunt, and according to the terms of the will she must occupy the house for the period of one year. These terms may not seem too demanding, however, the house, nicknamed Mystery Manor, is supposedly haunted by Erma's deceased Aunt and a phantom tiger which appears at midnight in order to regain possession of a mysterious collar of jewels that had been stolen from its neck.

Erma moves into the Manor, determined to ignore the superstitions surrounding this place. When her friends and relatives arrive on the scene, strange happenings commence. Creepy noises, eerie lights, women's screams and clutching claws haunt Erma, her Aunt Sophia, her cousins Arthur Hale and Oswald Kerins, her girlfriend, Peggy Van Ess, Mrs. Murdock, the Scotch maid and Yam, a Hindu house boy. MacIntosh, Erma's sweetheart posing as a boatman, arrives and joins the group of bewildered houseguests. The discovery of a mystery woman, bound and gagged in a boat on the estate lake adds to the mystery. Thompson, a circus trainer, heightens suspense with the announcement that a tiger has just escaped from a nearby circus and is lurking on the estate.

As the peak of intrigue is reached, MacIntosh locates the jewels and solves the mystery of Mystery Manor: Cousin Arthur and his accomplice Thompson, knowing the jewels were hidden in the house, had killed the Aunt and had used the phantom tiger superstition to keep the Manor uninhabited during their search for the jewels. Erma and her houseguests proved to be quite a match for Arthur, who has posed as the phantom tiger.

The senior class will long be remembered for its presentation of this successful thriller, which was directed by Miss Forney.

Under the capable leadership of Barry Haverstick, the Student Council experienced a very successful year. This year the representative body of the school sponsored the Korean orphan and the Sr. Valentine Contest. The council also undertook the collection of items for needy families at Christmas and sponsored the Yearbook Dance and the Junior High Party. Tom McMahan and Ted Ayres represented Hempfield at the Student Council District Convention.

To become a member of the National Honor Society is perhaps the greatest honor that a student can receive during his high school career. Membership is based on four qualities: character, scholarship, leadership, and service. Nominations for membership can be made by any faculty member, and from these candidates a faculty committee makes the final selections.

Dr. Richard Stonester of Franklin and Marshall College was the speaker at the annual induction ceremony, which was held on March 2.

The members of the Key Club, which is primarily a service organization sponsored by the Kiwanis Club, have as their main objective the betterment of school and community by working as one cooperative unit. The club consists of forty boys in grades ten through twelve. Some of the projects which the Key Club undertook in the past year are as follows: sponsoring the Thanksgiving Dance, operating a coat check service at school functions, keeping a schedule of coming events on a bulletin board, and in co-operation with the Student Council collecting goods for the needy at Christmas.

The Flash has again this year been successful in keeping the student body informed of the many activities and events which concerned Hempsfield. The staff sponsored two Halloween Dances in October and the Leap Year Lark, a Junior High dance for which the Hempsfield Dance Band played. This fall the Flash was entered in the Lancaster County Tuberculosis Society Contest in which it captured first place. The Flash then went on to gain state and national honors in this same contest.

The Future Homemakers of America is an organization which strives to create a growing appreciation of the joys and satisfactions of homemaking in the young women of today. Along with various social activities and money making projects, these girls brought Christmas cheer to the children of Christ's Home Orphanage and sent clothing to the needy children of Crossmore School in South Carolina. This year the Hempfield Chapter played host for the regional meeting of the PFHA. Featured in the program was Miss Yetta Sachs of Mary Sachs, Inc., of Lancaster. Rose Ann Swarr was elected a Pennsylvania state officer at the state convention at Penn State.

Mu Alpha Theta, the National High School and Junior College Mathematics Club, serves Hempfield by providing an organization in which students with advanced mathematical ability can meet and discuss topics in that field. The members take turns providing the programs at the monthly meetings. In May the club went to Armstrong Laboratories where they toured the premises and saw practical applications of math in action.

With a membership of more than thirty students from grades ten through twelve, the FTA is a rapidly growing organization at Hempfield. This year many club members had the experience of student teaching in the elementary schools of our district. Other activities gave these students the privilege of meeting numerous people who presented helpful information concerning many aspects of a teaching career. The Hempfield club played host for the annual meeting of the Southern Pennsylvania District, which featured Mr. Harry Gerlach as guest speaker.

OPERETTA

"SWEETHEARTS"

This spring the music department of Hempfield presented the well-known operetta, "Sweethearts." The story of this entertaining production revolves around a lost princess who has been brought up in the Laundry of the White Geese by Dame Paula, the proprietor of the laundry. Much excitement, confusion, rivalry and merriment result from the search for the lost princess. This delightful story is supplemented by a tremendous musical score by the famous composer, Victor Herbert.

SENIOR BAND

The Hempfield High School Band under the direction of Mr. Russel P. Getz is pictured above in concert formation. This was just one phase of the band's work. September, for example, found them performing on the football field. Under the able leadership of head midgette Toby Yinger, the marching Red and Black snapped through precision drills and formed juke boxes, barber poles, rockets and palm trees to the rhythm of familiar tunes. The next highlight in the band's year was the annual concert on April 8. The versatile group presented a stirring array of marches, classical numbers, and modern arrangements. A number of spring parades marked the end of another successful season of fine music.

During its last year as a combined junior-senior high school organization, the orchestra performed in both the Christmas and spring programs. In the winter concert the orchestra played "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring" and various other selections. In the spring concert it accompanied the choruses as they sang favorites from Broadway shows.

Bolstered by an outstanding seasonal performance by Ric Horst, the Black Knight gridgers completed their second year in the Conference of Roses with a four and five record. This record compares favorably with those compiled by other teams in their sophomore years. The four wins gained by the Knights came against non-league teams, thus the Conference standing of the team was very low. These teams will be eliminated from the schedule next year, and the squad will play a full complement of league games. A nucleus of experienced players augmented by an excellent Junior High team of this year should furnish Coach Mentzer with a potentially good squad for the 1960 season.

In the post-season all-star selections, Hempfield was honored by having Horst selected on the first team. The team's co-captains, Gene Mowrer and John Stacks, and Fred Rudy received honorable mention in this selection.

Under the able coaching of Christ Hondras and Donald Bissinger, Hempfield opened its first season of junior high football. The team, which consisted of all Freshmen, showed signs of tremendous potential and should develop into a truly fine football squad in the next few years. The team overpowered all of their five opponents except Lancaster Catholic, which broke a 7-7 tie in the fourth quarter to gain a 13-7 decision.

VARSITY BASKETBALL

In his first year as a Hempfield mentor, Coach Henry compiled an excellent team record. With Fred Rudy as the only veteran from last year's starting five, the future seemed dark indeed, however, the inexperienced team surprised all by gathering a league record of eleven wins and three losses and by finishing in second place. Two of the three league losses came at the hands of the perennially powerful Columbia while the third defeat was by Penn Manor. Since three of this year's starters return next year, Hempfield's chances for next year's league crown seem bright indeed.

Once again Coach McDonough has produced a powerful JV team, which this year captured the mythical league's title. The Knights possessed an overall balance and poise which is unusual even for a varsity squad. The team compiled an excellent record of sixteen wins and one loss. Coach Henry certainly can look forward to the talented players which will join his ranks next year.

During the 1959-1960 season, Coach Bissinger's Black Knight grapplers showed a great deal of improvement finishing strongly at the end of the season. Although the team will lose seven of its varsity starters next year, several of the returning boys produced impressive records during the past season. Also, several high scoring JV freshmen will move up into starting positions. The most impressive mat victory of the season was Hempfield's 23-20 defeat of Columbia. The 1959-60 wrestlers posted Hempfield's first winning season with a record of eight wins and five losses.

BASEBALL

As this book goes to press, the baseball squad has an over-all record of two wins and one loss, the lone defeat coming in a practice game with Manheim Township. In their only league contest, the Knights downed Elizabethtown 4 to 3 with hurler Gordie Kauffman collecting the victory. The team, which consists largely of potentially fine sophomores, has an excellent chance of taking the league's crown.

This year with the formation of the track team, Hempfield revived a sport which had been discontinued many years ago at this school. The team, which was composed of approximately fifty boys, entered into league competition during its first year.

The 100, 220, and 440 yard dashes; the half-mile and mile runs; and the half-mile and mile relays constitute the running events. The field events consist of the high jump, broad jump, pole vault, javelin, discuss, and shot put.

FINIS

This then is the end of our story. We have reached the climax of six years of training and preparation. The last few weeks have been packed full of moments that must be briefly savored and then relinquished forever: a last glimpse of the shining gym floor in the late afternoon sunlight, the golden silence broken only by the thud of a basketball; the nervous exhaustion gained from cramming all night for finals; the swell of voices of the Hemphill Singers rehearsing for graduation night; and the look of awe in a seventh grader's eyes as he looks up at our class in caps and gowns. These moments come and go and are lost forever, or so we think. But years later we will discover them again as the jewels of memory, which grow brighter with remembering.

Yes, this story is ended. But this story, Volume 1. What comes next is not an epilogue, but a new book—fresh and unopened and ours to write. And we are eager to turn the page.

Rachel,
to a sweet girl
